Defendants.

The Plaintiffs, by counsel, state the following in support of their complaint against the Defendants:

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

Defendants have deliberately deprived the Plaintiffs of their constitutional rights by refusing to fulfill their absolute non-discretionary duty to vote on Plaintiffs' initiative petition. This initiative seeks to amend the Massachusetts Constitution so that the definition of marriage in Massachusetts is restored to the union of one man and one women. The Defendants have engaged in willful and contumacious acts of lawlessness which strike at the heart of ordered liberty and constitutional government. Defendants have exchanged the rule of law for political expediency at the expense of the citizens of Massachusetts as well as the federal and state constitutions.

Consequently, Plaintiffs have commenced this civil rights action pursuant 42 U.S.C. § 1983 to redress Defendants' violations of the First and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution. Specifically, Defendants have interfered with and deprived Plaintiffs of their rights to free speech, to petition the government, to vote, and to due process of law. Plaintiffs seek declaratory, injunctive and compensatory relief for injuries caused by the named Defendants.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

1. This Court maintains jurisdiction over this action pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1331, based upon the existence of federal questions and deprivations of federally protected civil rights.
2. This Court also has jurisdiction pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983; 28 U.S.C. §

1343(a)(3), in that this action addresses federal questions and/or seeks to redress the deprivation, under color of state law, statute, ordinance, regulation, custom and/or usage rights, privileges and/or immunities secured by the United States Constitution and federal law, which provides for the equal rights of citizens and others, including the Plaintiffs, within the jurisdiction of the United States; 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201(a) and 2202 because Plaintiffs seek declaratory and injunctive relief.

3. This Court has authority to declare the rights and legal relations of the parties, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201 and 2202, because this is a case of actual controversy within this Court's jurisdiction.

4. Venue is proper under 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b)(1) and (2) in that all the acts alleged herein were committed by Defendants within the territorial limits of this Court. Venue is proper in the Central Division of this district because the majority of the Plaintiffs reside in Worcester County.

5. This Court has authority to grant Plaintiffs' prayer for costs and attorneys fees under 42 U.S.C. § 1988.

At all times relevant to this case, these Defendants have maintained and continue to maintain residences and offices in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

19. The Massachusetts Constitution establishes the Plaintiffs' right to modify the state government as follows:

Government is instituted for the common good; for the protection, safety, prosperity and happiness of the people; and not for the profit, honor, or private interest of any one man, family, or class of men: Therefore the people alone have an incontestable, unalienable, and indefeasible right to institute government; and to reform, alter, or totally change the same, when their protection, safety, prosperity and happiness require it.

M.G.L.A. Const. Pt. 1, Art. 7.

20. As a direct means of changing the state government, the Massachusetts Constitution vests the Plaintiffs with the right to amend the state constitution through the initiative petition process:

Legislative power shall continue to be vested in the general court; but the people reserve to themselves the popular initiative, which is the power of a specified number of voters to submit constitutional amendments and laws to the people for approval or rejection

M.G.L.A. Const. Amend. Art. 48, Pt. 1.

21. The Massachusetts Constitution, M.G.L.A. Const. Amend. Art. 48, Pt. 4, § 5, requires the General Court to vote on a proposed citizen initiative to amend the state constitution. The proposed amendment must be placed on the ballot if one-fourth of all the members elected to the General Court, sitting in joint session, vote in favor of placing the initiative on the ballot in two consecutive sessions.

22. The Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court has found that Defendants have a state constitutional, non-discretionary duty to vote on a duly certified citizen initiative to amend the state constitution.

23. On or about December 7, 2005, the Plaintiffs and their supporters presented approximately 170,000 signatures to the Secretary of the Commonwealth pursuant to M.G.L.A. Const. Amend. Art. 48, Pt. 2, § 3. The initiative petition proposed a constitutional amendment to be placed on the 2008 ballot as follows:

When recognizing marriages entered into after the adoption of this amendment by the people, the Commonwealth and its political subdivisions shall define marriage only as the union of one man and one woman.

24. On or about December 20, 2005, the Secretary of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts certified 123,356 signatures on Plaintiffs' initiative petition and transmitted it to the General Court pursuant to M.G.L.A. Const. Amend. Art. 48, Pt. 2, § 4.

25. On May 10, 2006, the General Court met in joint session for the purpose of conducting a constitutional convention. Plaintiffs' proposed amendment was properly before the joint session along with other proposed initiatives. On May 10, 2006, Plaintiffs' initiative enjoyed the support of more than one-fourth of all the members elected to the General Court.

26. On May 10, 2006, a majority of state legislators failed to fulfil their constitutional duties to vote on the Plaintiffs' initiative pursuant to M.G.L.A. Const. Amend. Art. 48, Pt. 4, § 4. Specifically, Defendants deliberately failed to vote on Plaintiffs' initiative by recessing the 2006 constitutional convention to July 12, 2006.

27. On July 12, 2006, the legislature met in joint session and a majority of legislators again failed to fulfil their constitutional duties to vote on the Plaintiffs' initiative by recessing the 2006 constitutional convention to November 9, 2006. On July 12, 2006, Plaintiffs' initiative enjoyed the support of more than one-fourth of all the members elected to the General Court.

28. On November 9, 2006, the named Defendants met in joint session and again failed to fulfil their constitutional duties to vote on the Plaintiffs' initiative, by recessing the 2006 constitutional convention to January 2, 2007 at 2:00 p.m. (the last day of the 2005/2006 legislative session). On November 9, 2006, Plaintiffs' initiative enjoyed the support of more than one-fourth of all the members elected to the General Court.

29. The Defendants' repeated acts of intentionally recessing the 2006 constitutional convention without a substantive vote constitutes a constructive adjournment of the same. This constructive adjournment is the equivalent of a failure to take final action on Plaintiffs initiative petition in violation of Article 48 of the Massachusetts Constitution.

30. The named Defendants' refusal to vote on the initiative violated a constitutionally mandated ministerial duty which did not include any level of legislative discretion.

31. Defendants do not enjoy legislative immunity from liability for flagrant violations of their constitutional duties to vote on duly submitted citizen initiative petitions.

32. Defendants intend, by thwarting a vote on this initiative through administrative delay and denial tactics, to prevent the Plaintiffs and the people of Massachusetts from exercising their right to amend the state constitution.

33. On November 12, 2006, Defendant Linsky admitted that he voted to recess the November 9, 2006, constitutional convention to insure that a substantive vote would never take place on the proposed marriage amendment and to “end the divisive debate,” thereby effectively killing the initiative

34 On November 22, 2006, Defendant Kaufman admitted that there were “between 55 and 60 votes” in favor of placing the proposed marriage amendment on the ballot and the only way for those legislators who opposed the initiative to prevent it from proceeding to a citizen vote was “to recess to end the debate without acting on the proposed initiative ”

35 On November 22, 2006, Defendant Petersen admitted that he had a constitutional duty to vote on the initiative petition but touted the fact that the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court has refused in the past to take judicial action to compel legislators to fulfil their constitutional duties. Defendant Petersen admitted that he violated the state constitution in favor of protecting same-sex “marriage.”

36 Public interest groups, who have funded many of the Defendants’ campaigns, have pressured Defendants to act in contravention to the Massachusetts Constitution

37 Defendant DiMasi has used political and personal pressure to influence other Defendants to violate their constitutional duties to vote on the initiative petition

38 Certain named Defendants have failed in the past to fulfil their constitutional duties to vote on other citizen initiatives to amend the state constitution, causing those proposed amendments to be excluded from ballots

39 Defendants have demonstrated a pattern and practice of intentionally depriving Massachusetts citizens of their right to amend the state constitution.

40 Defendants’ intentional interference with the initiative at issue in this action has caused and will continue to cause the Plaintiffs significant loss of federal and state constitutional rights. Moreover, unless remedied, Defendants' illegal acts have effectively nullified Plaintiffs' initiative petition and caused Plaintiffs monetary damage in excess of $500,000.00 (Five Hundred Thousand Dollars).

47. Defendants have engaged in an unlawful prior-restraint on Plaintiffs' free speech rights

48. Defendants have repeatedly recessed or otherwise administratively delayed a vote on Plaintiffs' proposed amendment and plan to continue this course of action for the express purpose of nullifying the petition.

Specifically, Defendants have intentionally failed to execute their constitutional duties to vote on Plaintiffs' initiative petition
